J. L. Lewis Tells Congress Nationalization Is Only Remedy

OPERATORS ARE BLAMED
Investigating Body Is Urged to Make Study of Entire Mine SituationBy United Press Leased Wire
Washington—Nationalization of the country's coal mines was "seriously suggested" to congress Monday by John L. Lewis, president of the United Mine Workers, appearing before the house labor committee which is seeking a solution of the present strike.

Nationalization, Lewis told the committee, is the inevitable remedy for the ills of the coal situation which, he said, the operators have refused to remedy.

"The mine workers," said Lewis, "have been waiting with ever growing impatience for many years, hoping to be able to detect some signs that the operators were awakening to a realization of their duties. But so far nothing has been accomplished."

"And so it is that the mine workers say that there now seems to be no hope except through nationalization. No remedy has been offered by the operators and in default of any other remedy, the mine workers seriously suggest that the government take over and operate the mines."

"We do not mean to encourage any mischievous or wanton spirit. We have no desire to advocate irreconcilable steps in any direction. But we see that it is inevitable that sooner or later, the government must take the step of nationalization, because we have finally given up all hope of relief from the operators and convinced as we are that it is a step in the right direction, we urge its consideration upon congress."

READY FOR MEETING
With respect to settlement immediately of the existing strike emergency, Lewis said he held out the olive branch to the operators.

He said the miners are ready to meet the operators at any time to negotiate a new wage agreement and thus end the coal strike.

Lewis said the miners would welcome an impartial and judicial investigation that would reveal the facts regarding the coal business—profits, operating practices, industrial relations.

Any investigating body created by congress should "be free from political equation and the mine workers should be given adequate representation thereon," he said.

After reviewing the circumstances leading up to the present tieup, the miners chief said:

"In both fields the suspension of work is in reality a lockout and not a strike. In both it is made inevitable by the actions of the operators."

BLAME OPERATORS
"The difference between the two is this—in the bituminous field the operators have arrogantly refused to fulfill obligations that should be sacred to them and have demanded that labor be regarded as a commodity and tamely submit to a fixation of its wage through the socialized law of supply and demand, through the exercise of industrial strike and stress, through the pressure of hunger on the one side and unrestrained greed on the other."

"The United Mine Workers regret more than anyone else the necessity for a suspension of work. We have done everything humanly possible to avoid suspension."

DISMISS JURY HEARING
BURCH MURDER TRIALBy United Press Leased Wire
Los Angeles—A wholesale jury dismissal was ordered Monday by Superior Judge Sidney Reeve in the second trial of Arthur Burch for the murder of John Beitel Kennedy.

The sensational action followed charges of jury tampering made by the defense against District Attorney Woolwine's office.

Dismissal of the panel necessitated suspension of the Burch trial for a week. It will resume next Monday.

ARBUCKLE'S THIRD
TRIAL TO LAST 6 WEEKS

San Francisco—Roscoe (Patty) Arbuckle's third trial on manslaughter charges growing out of Virginia Rappe's death entered its fourth week with the defense only fairly launched into its side of the testimony.

Two more weeks will be consumed, it was predicted.

NO PEACE TALK

ALMOST GONE

Strike Developing Into Tug of War to Win Public Sympathy

CRISIS COMING IN 6 WEEKS

Reports to Strike Headquarters Indicate All Union Mines are Closed

By Fred G. Johnston
By United Press Leased Wire
Indianapolis—The coal strike developed Monday into a tug of war with both the miners and operators pulling for public sentiment.

As the nation started to draw upon its 65,000,000 ton reserve, neither side was willing to make a peace overture and the government was "watchfully waiting" until a fuel shortage threatened.

Belief was expressed privately at United Mine Workers headquarters here that the strike will continue until the reserve is depleted to 20,000,000 tons. This appears to be several weeks distant. It was believed the faction highest in public esteem at that time will win the fight.

When the reserve is cut to 20,000,000 tons, the country will be on the edge of a fuel shortage. Economic pressure is expected to be exerted then to force an interstate wage conference which the mine owners have refused consistently.

If all America's mines were closed the present surplus would be sufficient for only six weeks, but 1,500 open show mines are producing over 20 per cent wage increase.

Another factor in the situation which is now being considered is whether the anthracite miners will return to work as soon as their representatives negotiate a new wage scale in the New York conference. They may stay out in sympathy with the bituminous workers or they may return to work if the anthracite operators meet their demands for a 20 per cent wage increase, equalizing the scale in the two fields.

Telegraphic reports to headquarters here Monday showed that all the union miners and thousands of their unorganized coworkers refused to answer the morning whistles calling them back to work. Officers of the International union declared weeks ago the strike would be effective to the last detail and that the miners would grimly fight for a "human standard of living in an industry that claims a life for every 200,000 tons of coal mined."

The issue of the six-hour day, five-day week and continuation of the present basic wage on the part of the miners and for lower wages on the part of the operators apparently has been lost in the shuffle. The outstanding fight of the union is against abandonment of the central field as a basis for fixing wages, which it claims is vital.

FIVE INDICTED FOR THEATRE DISASTER

Grand Jury Fixes Blame for Catastrophe That Caused 97 Deaths

Washington—A grand jury here Monday returned a five-indictment holding the five men jointly responsible for the collapse of the Knickerbocker theatre roof Jan. 29 and charging them with involuntary manslaughter. The disaster took a death toll of 97 lives.

The indictment charges the disaster was due to three causes: 1. Faulty designing. 2. Faulty construction. 3. Inadequate supervision of building work.

Those indicted were: Reginald W. Gaure, architect of the theatre. John H. Ford, president of the Union Iron Works and engineer who revised the original plans.

Donald Wallace, general foreman for Frank L. Wagner, contractor for the theatre. Richard G. Fletcher, foreman for the Hummelt Fire Roofing company, subcontractor for cement and masonry work.

Julian R. Downman, assistant building inspector. Four others who were ordered held by the coroner's inquest, were exonerated.

RAILROAD WANTS TO HALT CONDEMNATION

Chicago—The government Monday asked Federal Judge Page to dismiss the suit in which the Pennsylvania railroad seeks a permanent injunction to restrain the United States railroad labor board from publishing a report condemning the strike.

Blackburn Esterline, assistant to Attorney General Daugherty, stated the suit was one against the government, which cannot be sued without its consent.

A temporary injunction restraining the board from publicly finding the Pennsylvania guilty of violation of the board's rules was granted several months ago.

Milwaukee Minister and Humane Agent Get Bad Beating from "Fans"

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—"Ladies night" was under the ban in Chicago Monday.

Police captains scoured their districts in search for women's poker parties following a raid in which seven women were arrested while playing "dollar limit" poker.

Mrs. Minnie Mysowski was to appear in court on charges of being the "hostess" of the game. Orders to clamp down the lid on women gamblers followed the raid on Mrs. Mysowski's apartment and the holdup of poker players in the home of Mrs. Julia Madden which netted $5,000.

A Milwaukee paper giving an account of the affair Monday morning intimated indifference of the county authorities in stopping the illegal sporting event. The truth is, according to Sheriff P. G. Schwartz, the county authorities lost an opportunity to arrest the offenders because the Milwaukee men took things in their own hands and broke up the cock fight before arrests could be made.

OFFER ASSISTANCE
Mr. Clayton and the Rev. M. Dunkley, who led a war on cock fights in the state and recently raided a rooster battle at Waukesha, arresting a number of men. They came to Appleton Saturday evening saying they had been "tipped off" to a fight which was to occur in this locality but did not know just the location of it. Sheriff Schwartz gave the men his name and telephone number and also that of George T. Prim, chief of police, saying every assistance would be given if either department were called upon. It was agreed that the sheriff would be notified when the full facts were obtained so he could organize a raiding party.CALLED AFTER FIGHT
Nothing more was heard from the Milwaukee pair until 120 in the morning when the Rev. Mr. Dunkley, who had escaped from the fight, called for aid. Sheriff Schwartz was given use of the police car with Officer John Kobussen driving, and hurried to the scene with his men. By this time the riot was over and the place was dark. Peter Watry, owner of the hotel, had retired and got out of bed to answer the call of the officers. Without any means of identifying the men who participated in the affair, the authorities were unable to proceed with the case.

It is said that Mr. Clayton, who was roughly handled by the fight fans had to walk all the way back to Appleton after he escaped from the hotel. The Rev. Mr. Dunkley had left in his automobile for Appleton to summon aid.

Mr. Clayton and the Rev. Mr. Dunkley learned that the cock game cocks were to be shipped from Milwaukee to Menasha, it was said. They drove from Milwaukee to Menasha in Mr. Clayton's car and trailed the crate of cocks to Little Chute. In Little Chute they learned the fights were to be held in the Northwestern house. They returned to Appleton to wait until the fight got well underway so they could place the spectators under arrest.

The pair said they were determined not to let the offenders escape, and decided to stage the raid alone. As they entered the building the third fight of the program was being held. Dashing through a throng of about 250 men, the Rev. Mr. Dunkley and Mr. Clayton jumped into the cockpit and demanded a halt in the proceedings in the name of the law.

Right then things began to happen. The spectators made a rush for the officer and the minister, and in less than a minute the two men were the center of a surging mass of fighting humanity. With cries of "kill them" the assembled crowd began to hurt missiles and swing their fists.

Fighting his way through the crowd the clergyman reached the door and made his escape to Appleton. But Mr. Clayton was not so fortunate. He was unable to get away from the crowd and it is said received a beating about the face and head. Both his eyes were swollen shut and his face was cut and bruised from blows of the spectators, it was reported.

Fearing the officer would be killed several of the spectators went to his assistance and succeeded in fighting the crowd back and getting the man out of the building and on his way to Appleton.

According to information received Monday, the cock fights program at the Northwestern cafe Sunday was an all-state affair and followers of the game were present from all sections of Wisconsin.

Some of the roadhouse keepers, however, denied Monday their places had been raided.

MILL WORKERS

APPLETON NOT AFFECTED

Common Laborers in Several Mills Leave Work When Pay is Reduced

Several groups of papermill employees in Neenah, Menasha and Kaukauna left their work Saturday and Monday in protest against reductions in wages which became effective April 1. So far as can be learned none of the mills in Appleton have been affected. It is reported here that one mill in Menasha is almost completely down and another is operating with reduced forces.

It is said the men who left their work are not organized and no general strike call has come from any source.

The Gilbert Paper Co. mill at Menasha closed down on Saturday when most of the common laborers left their posts. It is said several hundred men are involved.

At the Neenah Paper Co. several departments are involved but the mill is in operation.

A number of employees of the Thimble Pulp and Paper Co. at Kaukauna are said to be idle. Most of the men who left their work were employed in the pulp mill.

It is reported here that most of the men who left their work are common laborers. In one of the mills it is said a few of the skilled workmen left their posts but the number is not large.

A reduction of 4 cents an hour for all classes of labor became effective April 4. It is said that this reduction was made in several industries in addition to the papermills. In most instances these reductions were made, it is said, after negotiation between employers and employees. This is particularly true of the Kimberly-Clark Co. which discussed the wage adjustments in mill councils. There is no indication of dissatisfaction in this company's mills it is reported.

Appleton employers report no dissatisfaction in their mills. The wage reduction was made in only one or two mills it was reported.

RAIL WORKERS PLAN
AID FOR STRIKERS

Head of Telegraphers' Union Is Sounding Out Other Union Chiefs

By United Press Leased Wire
Chicago—Railroad unions planned aid for the striking coal miners Monday.

E. J. Manion, head of the Order of Railroad Telegraphers was in Chicago to determine the attitude of the railroad union chiefs.

Manion said he favored a plan whereby coal miners would at least be given financial support of rail workers. Manion at his stand, is backed by E. H. Fitzgerald, president of the Brotherhood of Railway and Steamship Clerks.

It was expected that Manion would call a meeting of representatives of railroad and mine union chiefs this week.

In railroad circles it was stated that Manion's stand has the backing of Warren S. Stone, grand chief of the Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers.

Manion, Fitzgerald and several mine officials of rail unions held a secret conference yesterday.

Manion Monday stated railroad unions would meet with miners if a request for aid was made.

OPERATION WOULD NOT HAVE SAVED TWINS

Chicago—Operation to separate Rose and Josefa Blazek, Slavonian twins, was proven fatal, a secret postmortem conducted here showed Monday.

Dr. J. H. M. Otravodov stated the twins, who died last week, were pointed together at the spine.

The surgeon said that Franz Blazek was undoubtedly the son of Rose and not of both twins.

Testimony of Dr. Otravodov is expected to be introduced in a probable court here during the settlement of the $100,000 estate of the twins.

Franz, it was believed, will receive $50,000 of the estate. The other half will go to Frank, brother of the twins.

British Premier Ready to Re-sign if Vote of Confidence is Refused

RUSS QUESTION IS CRUCIAL
Premier Insists Soviets Must Guarantee to Keep Peace in EuropeBy United Press Leased Wire
London—Premier Lloyd George Monday afternoon asked the house of commons for a vote of confidence in his government.

In a stirring speech before a crowded house, the British prime minister put his leadership to the test. He defended his coalition government's foreign policy and asked the approval of parliament for a new economic conference.

Lloyd George squarely the crisis confronting his government. He was asked from the opposition benches by leaders of three independent groups of political enemies each with an amendment to his resolution.

Resort to that this house approve the resolution, as passed by the supreme council at Caen, as a basis for the Genoa conference. "I will support his majesty's government in an endeavoring to effect them."

READY TO RESIGN
The prime minister said he was ready to resign if an amendment was passed. The Genoa conference was "called to consider the reconstruction of economic Europe," Lloyd George declared, opening his speech late Monday afternoon. "And to examine the best method of restoring prosperity out of desolation."

He thereupon moved his resolution, asking parliament's confidence in the proposed policies.

The prime minister went on to elaborate on the principles underlying the proposed conference.

"I do not believe the Genoa conference should consider revision of existing treaties," he declared, indicating his accord with the French view that the Versailles treaty must be abandoned in favor of new agreements.

It was on this point, Lloyd George's new found accord with France, that the independent liberals were prepared to attack the premier's resolution.

"Europe's trouble is not due to our having demanded reparations," Lloyd George declared, "but because there is something to repair."

The typical Lloyd George twist, delivered in his best style, brought a burst of appreciative applause from the house.

The question of peace with Russia, Lloyd George said, was a most important one.

"Germany cannot pay her reparation debt until Russia has been repaid," the prime minister declared emphatically.

"We must establish complete peace throughout all Europe," Lloyd George stated, "with a view to dealing with serious problems of trade and unemployment."

"The real basis for peace would be if Russia was willing to accept the allies' conditions."

Russia's large armies are an excuse for other countries maintaining armies.

The prime minister then reached the most important point in his address, the question of recognition of the soviet government by the allies.

The house hung on every word, for the prime minister had carefully gone over this portion of his speech with his colleagues in the cabinet just before coming to commons.

The conservatives in commons were prepared to resist any suggestion of unqualified de jure recognition of the Kremlin.

Lloyd George insisted that Russia first must guarantee not to attack her neighbors.

Secondly, the soviet government must honor all Russian obligations. Here the prime minister expressed general accord with the French view, insisted upon by Premier Poincare at Boulogne.

"There are indications," the premier said, "that Russia is coming to realize that communism has proved a failure."

The prime minister finished speaking and John Clynes, leader of the labor party in the house, offered an amendment to Lloyd George's resolution.

By the labor amendment, the house would refuse to express its confidence in the present government to represent the country at the Genoa conference.

WANT HARDING TO TELL WHEN MEN WERE "FIRED"

Washington—Senator Caraway, Arkansas, Democrat, Monday introduced a resolution calling on President Harding to inform congress why 29 employees of the bureau of printing and engraving were summarily dismissed. Caraway pointed out that the discharged workers were under civil service and that in dismissing them Harding did not set forth the charges forming the basis for dismissal as is required by the civil service law.

A similar inquiry was asked in the house by Representative Moore.

All officers of the association were re-elected. They are Gus Kent, Sheboygan, president; George Hilton, Oshkosh, vice president; Tony Van Beek, Green Bay, secretary and treasurer. Members of the executive committee were re-elected as follows: A. J. Horlick, Racine; M. A. Smith, Wausau; J. A. Cashin, Stevens Point; A. J. Deltry, Kenosha; L. R. Stollberg, Milwaukee; J. M. McCarroll, Madison; H. L. Davis, Appleton.

MUST BE CAREFUL ON MACKVILLE-RO.

Autoists using Jackville-Rd. Sunday discovered that it is necessary to drive with extreme caution just outside the city limits. The sewer trench dug next to the concrete and which was filled in last fall has settled so there is a deep depression in places. Automobiles that are driven over the edge of the pavement are in danger of overturning or becoming mired so badly that assistance will be needed to pull them out of the mud.

Mackville-Rd. resembled summer days Sunday with many cars streaming in both directions all day. The road has been snowbound all winter and usable only by horses but work done by the highway commission made it available for traffic and drivers took advantage of it.

25 SEEK CONTRACT FOR NEW BUILDING

Bids for the new factory building to be erected by the Wichmann Furniture Co., at 871-923 College-ave., were opened Saturday evening and are now being tabulated. No bids on the complete work were called for and the 25 bids opened were on the mason and carpenter work which came under one head, plumbing, heating, electrical work and painting. The bids on the mason and carpenter work were very close, some of them within $100 of each other. There were ten on this particular part of the work; six on plumbing; four on heating; three on electrical work and 2 on painting. The bids were submitted by practically all home contractors.

Big Church Attendance
Rain which fell most of Sunday morning kept some people at home, but the First Congregational church had a large attendance as the result of the "100 per cent Sunday" campaign. Each person registered his name as he entered or left the building so a record of every member's response could be kept.

In New Office
Offices of the Thomas Land and Timber Co., and Earl P. Miller, Inc. were moved Saturday from 726 College-ave. to their new office rooms in the First National bank building. The new rooms have been remodeled and renovated. The men expect to be fully established in the new location by Monday.

QUASH SEYMOUR ELECTION PLEA

Judge A. M. Spencer Sustains
City Clerk in Decision on Mandamus Writ

Refusal of P. G. Bean, city clerk of Seymour to call a special election for chief of police, city health officer and city attorney in response to a petition filed by voters was sustained by the municipal court here when Judge A. M. Spencer quashed the mandamus writ sought by Attorney E. C. Smith.

This action of the court leaves the Seymour mayor and city council their power to appoint these and other officials specified in an ordinance adopted recently and which Mr. Bean used as the basis of his reply to the writ. The ordinance was passed in response to a petition filed by a group of voters other than those demanding the election.

THRESHERS MUST PAY WAGE THEY AGREED TO PAY

Employees Win Suit in Circuit Court to Recover 50 Cents a Day

Threshermen hired at $3.50 a day must be paid on that basis and no less, according to the decision reached in circuit court Friday afternoon in the suit brought by Richard Jens against Elvin Schroeder and Edward Deml, copartners.

A special verdict was asked of the jury by Judge E. V. Werner when the case was placed in its hands at noon. The twelve were asked to answer the question: "Was it agreed between the plaintiff and the defendants at the time they employed the plaintiff that the wages per day to be paid were $3.50 daily. The jury affirmed the answer yes.

This decision gives three men compensation of 50 cents more a day for a period of approximately seven weeks than the owners of the threshing outfit wanted to pay. The other two men are Reinhold Harp and Irvin Lipkie, who also filed suits against Schroeder and Deml through their guardians because of being minors.

Testimony showed that the men were hired at $3.50 a day but at the end of the threshing season were offered $3. They refused to accept the checks and began action in municipal court. The case then was appealed to circuit court. The defendants argued that the prevailing wage for threshermen was $3, but this was found to apply to cooperative threshing companies where the farmers themselves banded together to do the work.

PLAN RECEPTIONS FOR RYERSON'S

Two receptions have been arranged by the Rotary club for Tuesday for the coming of Mr. and Mrs. William Ryerson of Duluth.

There will be an afternoon tea conducted by wives of the Rotarians at which Mrs. Ryerson will be the honor guest. A banquet for both Rotary members and their wives is to be held at 6:30 in the Sherman house at which Mr. Ryerson will be the speaker.

Mr. Ryerson is conference chairman of the fifteenth district Rotary club and one of the club's national leaders. He plans to visit a number of clubs in this locality.

CAN'T MOVE FROM CITY UNTIL ROADS IMPROVE

Motortruck owners who make a specialty of moving household goods from one city to another have made no long trips so far this spring and are temporarily holding off filling orders until the roads improve. Many of the country highways are reported to be in a condition that would make it a hazardous undertaking to get over them with a load and truck owners do not propose to take any chances.

SAGE TEA DANDY TO DARKEN HAIR

It's Grandmother's Recipe To Bring Back Color and Lustre To Hair

You can turn gray, faded hair beautifully dark and lustrous almost overnight if you'll get a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound" at any drug store. Millions of bottles of this old famous Sage Tea Recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, are sold annually, says a well-known druggist here, because it darkens the hair so naturally and evenly that no one can tell it has been applied.

Those whose hair is turning gray or becoming faded have a surprise awaiting them, because after one or two applications the gray hair vanishes and your locks become luxuriantly dark and beautiful.

This is the age of youth. Gray-haired, unattractive folks aren't wanted around, so get busy with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound tonight and you'll be delighted with your dark, handsome hair and your youthful appearance within a few days.

RESTORE PHONE SERVICE ON LITTLE CHUTE ROAD

Wisconsin Telephone Co. is installing the telephones of their patrons between Appleton and Little Chute who have been without service since the sleet storm on Feb. 22. Since then the old poles and wires which were damaged have been replaced and residence connections are being made.

MRS. MARY A. SPENCER, of Watertown, N. Y., aged 75, who declares she gained fifteen pounds on Tanlac and feels just fine all the time. Was in badly run-down condition.

"Just think of it, at seventy-five years of age to be made well and strong again and gain twelve pounds in weight, but this is exactly what I did after taking Tanlac. Not only that, I feel younger," said Mrs. Mary A. Spencer, East St., life-long resident of Watertown, N. Y.

"For over a year I was in a terribly run-down condition and I was so nervous and restless that many a night I would hear the clock strike every hour. I was able to eat very little and lost strength right along, finally becoming so weak I could hardly walk from one room to the other.

"On account of my age I thought my declining health was natural, but Tanlac has proved that I was mistaken. I can do all my own housework now. I sleep all night long, wake up in the morning feeling refreshed and just feel fine all the day long. Tanlac can't be praised too much."

Tanlac is sold in Appleton by Voigt Drug Co. and by leading druggists everywhere.

TOMORROW'S ELECTION

It is to be hoped that the election tomorrow will be the result of a full vote. It is not an election that should go by default or public indifference. The office of mayor is so important that every citizen of Appleton should go to the polls in the exercise of his prerogative. Only a full vote will register Appleton's real sentiment and real conviction. It is neither a hardship nor an inconvenience to vote. The election tomorrow is the pivotal point of contact between the people and the city government. Whatever the people do at the polls tomorrow will be reflected in measures, policies, services in the city hall. Every taxpayer, every owner of a home, every person interested in Appleton ought to concern himself in this election and contribute to the best results as he sees them.

Women should avail themselves of this opportunity of registering their preferences and their convictions. They are as vitally interested in city government as are the men and equal suffrage gives them equal opportunity to determine what this city government shall be. Schools, disposal of garbage, are among the issues in which women should be and are interested and these issues are involved in the election tomorrow.

Careful selection of a mayor is important but it is equally necessary to be careful in choice of aldermen and other city officers. This is an opportunity to place in office the kind of men the voters believe will best measure up to the work that is expected of them.

The Post-Crescent believes D. O. Kinsman should be elected mayor. So much has been said in his favor, his training and education is so evident that it would seem to be unwise not to be guided by them in making a selection for the high office. Dr. Kinsman's statements, his dignified bearing in the campaign, his determination to make use of his knowledge and experience in city government for the best interests of all the people contribute to the unique position he occupies in the contest.

We cannot help but feel that the people have sensed the opportunity to elect a man of his attainments to the office of mayor. The last few days have indicated that the people feel this is a rare chance of placing in public service a man who is specially trained for it.

The election tomorrow should be an expression of all the people. We believe that if a full vote is polled Dr. Kinsman will be elected mayor. If the citizens measure up to the part in city government there will be a full vote.

TEN THOUSAND TO A MUSICIAN

Everybody has a different idea as to what constitutes excellence of public service. Probably the prevailing opinion is that the advancement of a community is promoted best by tangible improvements, and that the civic or private enterprise that adds to the wealth and enhances the appearance of a town, large or small, is the only generic public service worthy of recognition. Mr. Edward Bok, former editor of the Ladies' Home Journal, founded an annual prize of $10,000 and a gold medal for the citizen who renders the most valued service to Philadelphia. The honor has just been awarded, for the preceding year, to Dr. Leopold Stokowski, director of the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra.

It doubtless is surprising to a large number of persons that the distinction was conferred on a musician, and especially on the conductor of a symphony orchestra. Many persons do not know what a symphony orchestra is. Many persons prefer a band to an orchestra. Thousands of Philadelphians doubtless think that there are great managers, great factory operators, great architects, great builders, who have done more to build up their pretty city than the director of the symphony orchestra.

In recent years it has come to be understood by business men, as well as other thinking citizens, that, while commerce is necessary for prosperity, there are other things more important to the betterment of community life and standards. It is not sufficient that a city should be a good place to do business in and work in; it must be a good place to live in. Commerce makes a city and beautification gives it finish and class. But it is the churches and schools and the cultural and home interests that develop a community. It is conscience and thought that elevate community ideals and activities. An ordinary citizen without means or social standing, may and often does perform the greatest public service to the citizenship by launching an idea that inspires a community to higher effort and loftier purpose. The best public service is moral, intellectual or cultural.

THE MASTER IS SIMPLY A STUDENT

Mr. Thomas E. Edison is offended at a professor of economics in the University of Wisconsin over a reply inscribed to a letter concerning the inventor's questions relating to the possible abolition of the gold standard as the money base. Mr. Edison sent the list of questions to the scientific gentleman and invited comment on them, but his communication was ignored. Another missive from the laboratory expert was tossed in the waste basket, or filed away, unanswered, and then Mr. Edison indited another, which irritated the Wisconsin sphinx and evoked a caustic response, which in turn irritated the question-compiler.

The professor's letter, as published in the newspapers, was of high voltage, and it is not surprising that the tension of the rhetoric caused a vigorous reaction. On the other hand, it must be taken into consideration that the professor, having read several very large text books and many peculiar speculations about gold and the quantity theory of money, did not feel like composing a new volume on the demonetization of gold.

To answer Mr. Edison's questions fully and clearly would require 50,000 to 100,000 words, and little would or could be said that would be new from the standpoint of economics. As the professor intimated in his reply, he did not regard Mr. Edison as an authority in this science—and so on.

The fundamental principle of money which seems to be misunderstood, or not clearly understood, is that money is but a medium of exchange. It is not money which is exchanged, but goods, and money represents goods. It is not money that fixes prices, but commercial volume and activity. Yet, there must be a money base, which must be both stable and liquid.

But the outstanding question is how little any one of us knows, and, in particular, how ignorant each of us is except in one line or specialty. Even in that one specialty each of us is rather a student than a master. In fact, the farther that we advance in knowledge in any direction the more keenly we realize our ignorance and deficiency. We reach wise and proud conclusions only to learn that we are mistaken.

Thoroughness required in specialization in these days necessitates application exclusively to one science or art. With all the time and effort available it is possible to be only moderately proficient. As we progress toward efficiency we move on as students. The much that we know is little. The more we learn, the less, we feel, we know.

Ruth's Salary

Babe Ruth is to receive, for the next five years, a salary which, with a $500 bonus for every home run, may amount to $100,000 a year.

It is magnificent pay, and nobody can say that Ruth doesn't deserve it. As a drawing card he is worth that, and much more, to any team. The servant is worthy of his hire, and the performer ought to get a fair share of the money people pay the management to see him perform. That is the way things are run in other public amusements. The leading star of baseball now takes financial rank with operatic stars, though he hardly approximates yet the swollen salaries of movie stars. Eventually a man who can hit a ball better than anybody ever hit it before, or pitch it better or field it better, may be regarded as worth no less than an actress gifted with a charming pose or a bewitching curl, or an actor incredibly endowed or obese.

At the same time, many an old-fashioned fan deplors such soaring salaries. They seem somehow to take away the glory of playing the grand old game simply for the sake of the game. Baseball really seems in process of being commercialized to an extent that would never have been dreamed of a decade ago. It is a question right now whether Babe Ruth's celebrity this season will not depend more on the amount of his salary than on the number of his home runs.—TACOMA, WASH. NEWS TRIBUNE (Ind.)

For $150,000 a year Will Hays is finding what many people suspected, that there is room for improvement in the movies.—Toledo, Ohio, DAILY BLADE.

IT IS ALWAYS SECOND SUMMER

"My baby is now almost seven months old, announces an amateur mother, and I would appreciate your advice about weaning her. A friend of mine who has raised three children tells me it is most important to continue nursing babies thru their second summer."

Mothers who can nurse babies thru a second summer with advantage to the babies as well as themselves are scarcer than hen's teeth, and babies that are started well along the road to rickets by vain efforts to accomplish this stupendous feat of ground and lofty nursing are still too frequently encountered in clinics and infant welfare stations.

The whole "second summer" obsession is founded on lack of knowledge and a fertile imagination. An infant under any conditions or circumstances is of course less likely to suffer in health the second summer than earlier, for the simple reason that the child's natural resistance increases with growth and age.

Attempting to stretch the nursing period thru the second summer is much like waiting for the right kind of weather or the right season to have your tonsils out. Some people make up their minds to follow the doctor's advice, about removal of the tonsils, but they wait till the unsettled spring weather is gone. Then when nice weather comes they decide to wait till the heat of summer is over. When summer is over they settle down to wait until cold weather is gone and before spring rolls around again they're laid up with the rheumatism or heart trouble or appendicitis or something, contributed with the compliments of the streptococci in the tonsils.

About the age of 10 months the average baby should be weaned. The season or weather should make no difference, and the phase of the moon is as immaterial as it was in the institution of the nursing function. In fact the nursing or weaning of a baby does not call for a session of the neighborhood managers at all.

Teach the baby from the fourth month to take water from a cup. Then it will be easy to substitute one cup feeding for one breast feeding the first day of weaning, and two cup feedings for two breast feedings the second day, and so on until weaning is complete in a week or 10 days.

Here is the danger point. Well meaning but unwise friends are likely to intrude with their dangerous advice. But the wise mother will neither hear nor heed such advice. She will not rub or apply anything, nor use a breast pump, nor again put the baby to the breast. Nature's institution of lactation without any assistance or guidance and nature will stop the process without any trouble or annoyance if not interfered with. Once the final nursing has been finished, a comfortable supporting bandage or brassiere should be applied and worn for a few days, and from this time onward the breasts should be left severely alone. Unintelligent handling or manipulation of any kind only prolongs lactation. If the mother feels she must have some "treatment" let her take a bottle or two of magnesium citrate solution or a dose or two of plain salts.

Most mothers, some nurses, and even a few doctors have yet to learn the wisdom of not interfering with nature.

QUESTIONS AND ANSWERS

The Number of Bacilli

Kindly tell me the chances for a patient whose sputum examination reads: "Moderate number of tubercle bacilli present." This patient has worked herself into an intense nervous condition and morbid state of mind. She is 25 years of age.—(F. L. E.)

Answer—If the bacteriological examination was made by a competent person, the presence of bacilli of tuberculosis indicates that the patient has well established tuberculosis. The number of bacilli found in the examination is of no significance one way or the other. It has been estimated that about twenty-five billions of tubercle bacilli in the sputum makes a single specimen of sputum in the usual thing and the presence of a "moderate number," or a "few" in a minute fraction of a drop of sputum examined under the microscope is to be expected in any case of active tuberculosis of the lung if the disease is "open"—that is, if any softening or breaking down of tissue about the tubercle or seat of infection in the lung has occurred, before that has occurred the tuberculosis is called "closed" and no bacilli are eliminated in the sputum. The proper course for the young woman, if she men to get well, is immediate entrance upon the open air rest treatment under the advice and attendance of her physician—it is not important whether the climate is warm or cool, moist or dry.

Foods That Contain Iodine

Will you please tell me what vegetables or fruits contain iodine?—Miss R. S.

Answer—Green peas, green beans, white cabbage, tomatoes, rice, carrots, sorrel, leeks, asparagus, strachewberries, bananas, grapes, lettuce, potatoes, mushrooms, garlic. But sea food is generally ten times richer in iodine and therefore better for one with simple goitre or a tendency to goitre, to eat several times in the week as an iodine ration: Gray shrimp, crab, lobster, smoked herring, fresh salmon, oysters, fresh cod, anchovies and breme are particularly rich in iodine.

Germs Not in Books

Is there a possibility of spreading disease germs on books in a library used by many children from all sorts of homes?—Miss R. M.

Answer—No. Disease is not spread by books, letters, magazines, newspapers or paper money.

Resume of American and Foreign Newspaper Opinion

AMERICA'S NATIONAL DEFENSE

Unnecessary scrapping of the arms of national defense unanimously is opposed by the newspapers of the nation regardless of political belief.

Republican and Democratic editors alike agree that the Democratic conference of the recent disarmament conference shall be respected.

There seemingly is a growing indignation expressed over the congressional suggestions that the cuts shall be those that will affect what usually has been termed the "red blood of America."

This sentiment apparently is summed up by the Washington STAR, (Ind.), which, after reviewing the action of the house in dealing with the several problems, continues—"The United States would be rendered ridiculous contending for a definite ratio in the treaty and deliberately lowering it in the application." Further developing the suggestion, the Norfolk, Va., VIRGINIAN-PILOT (Dem.) calls attention to the fact that, while congress might possibly be under a vague construction given the states the constitution acted wisely in vesting the president with supreme command." It argues further that congress should leave the chief executive "free to use armed forces as his best judgment may dictate."

In the opinion of the Chicago DAILY NEWS, "a small standing army can serve all the nation's needs in times of peace, but the nation must maintain a position rapidly to increase its defenders in case of necessity." And it is the belief of the NEWS, that the issue now raised gives the war department "a good chance to bring about the abolition of all useless army posts." Still the Peoria, Ill., TRANSCRIPT (Ind.) sees in the agitation "more a desire—on the part of congress—to catch votes in doubtful districts than to limit the constitutional authority of the commander-in-chief," while he Flint, Mich., JOURNAL endorses the stand of General Pershing, Secretary of War, and of course, President Harding, believes that while the people of the country want reduction in taxes and government expenses as much as it is wise and possible, they do not want the army, or the nation's military protection reduced to a state of inefficiency."

The (Ind. Rep.) Minneapolis, Minn., JOURNAL is convinced, that, "while economy is imperative just now, legislation should avoid a short-sighted curtailment of the nation's defense. The judgment of disinterested experts should go far toward determining what size army and navy should be required for purposes of safety and defense. Still the Ann Arbor, Mich., TIMES-NEWS, (Ind.) seems convinced that Congress is endeavoring to get back to ancient tradition. Its provision for military training for the "student army" has its complete endorsement and the paper continuing says: "It seems evident that in cutting the land forces to a minimum congress is not losing sight of the need for proper training of the vast body of private citizens from which must come our main fighting strength in time of need. The Salt Lake, Utah, DESERET NEWS points out that reduced appropriations mean the closing of unnecessary army posts and adds: "The question of these posts makes a heavy drain upon the treasury and therefore upon the taxpayer. Some of them are quite useless so far as military necessity or strategic value is concerned."

Sharp criticism of the entire plan is enunciated in a comprehensive review of the situation by the Knoxville, Tenn., SENTINEL (Ind. Dem.) which insists that "there is nothing crazier than the craze of false economy, and the present congress, while eager and chafing to spend untold millions at the bung-hole of the government would have some meager millions by enacting the army even though it endangered the security of the country. To this the Munich, Ind., STAR (Ind. Rep.) adds that the opinion of the military experts should be permitted to prevail before "our military leaders never have been accused of being rampant militarists and their advice will be accepted by the public in preference to that of a group which has opposed without reason practically every appropriation for the national defense."

"Cut that swollen overhead, not the strength in men that already has been shrunk," voices the St. Louis Mo., GLOBE - DEMOCRAT, (Rep.), in endorsing abolition of widely scattered army posts and approving the position of the president and his military advisers. The New York TRIBUNE (Rep.) also believes that there is a tendency on the part of Congress to cut too close to the bone. It suggests that "there is a passion in the house for military retrenchment which is emotional more than economic. The old pacifist dogmatism and unreason is cropping out. Sound economy would keep the army and the navy well equipped, dependable peace time instruments."

The New York EVENING POSTS, (Ind.) warmly endorses suggestions that the president should veto to any army bill that would interfere with the war secretary, suggesting that the house can express its belief that large forces no longer are needed in the Pacific "without tying the hands of President Harding."

On the question of defense expense the Lexington, Ky., LEADER reminds the country that the people of the United States spent for armament more than twice the appropriation for the army, for tobacco and pipes three times that sum, for candy and chewing gum twice as much and believes that "congress will do well to take the advice from those who are competent to judge the need." Going a trifle further the New York WORLD (Ind. Dem.) frankly insists that congress "cannot restrict and hamper the administration in the executive control of the military and naval forces and at the same time hold it accountable for duties it cannot perform with forces at its disposal." But it was left to the Chicago TRIBUNE, (Ind. Rep.) to call attention to the fact that the pending proposals seem designed to make congress, instead of the president, commander in chief of the army. The comment then says: "This is partly malevolent stupidity and partly pork. . . . In military affairs congress is a bad egg."

EUROPE'S FINANCIAL PROBLEMS AND AMERICA

By Gustave Herve

The fact that seems most encouraging for the future is that for the first time the interallied financial program, which for two or three years has been frequently discussed without result, seems to have taken definite substance. It consists mainly of two parts: the liquidation and cancelling of allied debts on the one hand, with proportionate reduction of the German debts; and on the other hand, the emission of one or more German loans on the international market, safely guaranteed by the German customs or mines, thus permitting Germany to settle the remainder of her war debts without increasing the fall of her exchange.

But the great difficulty in this program is that it depends largely on the good will of our American friends both for the cancelling of the allied debts and for the success of German loans, and America seems little disposed at present to let her former European associates off even a dollar of their debts.

Thus the great English financier, Mr. Horne, knowing the present feeling in America, proposes to divide the German debt in two parts: the first part, about sixty billion gold marks, equal to the total amount of interallied war debts, would be represented by the 60 billion German securities of the C series, that is to say, the last put into circulation. Mr. Horne predicts that the day when they emerge from the portfolio of the reparations commission the question of the interallied debts will be settled so that the 60 billion German debt could be cancelled; and Germany could raise the remaining 70 billion by means of safely guaranteed foreign loans.

The financial situation in Europe may be discussed and considered from all sides, but the solution of the problem will remain the same: cancellation of interallied debts, and a German loan on the international market.

And if America hinders this by her present attitude, why not begin without her? asks M. Horve.

France, Italy, Roumania, Jugoslavia together owe England about 20 billion gold marks; other continental nations owe France large sums. Why could not England, without waiting for America to do the same, cancel the debts of France and of the other allies on condition that they hand over to her the German securities of the C series, which England could destroy and thus improve the German situation?

Why should not France do the same thing with regard to Italy and her other debts?

"And why not try to put a German loan on the European market, which if properly guaranteed might find investors in Scandinavian countries, in Switzerland and Holland, where the exchange is high, even in England and perhaps in France?"

America wants us to help ourselves before she helps us. Why should we not make an effort? If England and France were to cancel the interallied debts, America could hardly refuse to follow their example.

What great questions might be settled at once in Europe without the Americans, with a little good will, wise peace and courage?

These two at least are possible: the cancellation of debts between the European allies and the emission of a German loan on the European markets and now a third which is more than ripe: the settlement of the Eastern question, that is to say, peace with Turkey."

RATHENAU'S ENEMIES

Paris.—Germany's foreign minister has many enemies among his own people, who do not understand his broad views. L'EUROPE NOUVELLE says on the subject:

"Although Walter Rathenau is the president of the General Electric Company with its capital of 1,000,000,000 marks, he can by no means count on the sympathy of German industry. He has against him the implacable animosity of Hugo Stinnes, of the great metal and mining industries.

"The parties of the Right were trembling with rage when they heard of the nomination of Rathenau as Foreign Minister on February 1. The favorite paper of the clergy and the church, the REICHSBLATT, asks how Rathenau can possibly tolerate such an unheard-of provocation: 'The German people are really as docile as sheep,' it adds.

"From Count Reventlow to Maximilian Harden, Rathenau's numerous enemies have little understanding for the broad views, his attractive qualities, his extraordinary flexibility, and his keen and methodic intelligence. They pretend to see in him only an actor without character, a Berlin Jew of the worst kind, remarkably clever, certainly, but without doctrine or conviction—an uncanny 'universal specialist,' an eminent literary man among the industrialists, and an eminent in finance who plays at being prophet and who, moreover, would do well to give up prophesying for on the 5th July 1918 he prophesied the flight of the French government, very soon to Saint Sebastian or Portsmouth, and a fortnight before the armistice he prophesied the patriotic rising of the masses in Germany." But it

FINEST OF CLOTHING, READY-TO-WEAR

Presidents' Yacht

By Frederick J. Haskin

Washington. — The president's yacht is one of the most attractive of his possessions, yet very little has been written about it. The president's pets his hobbies, his daily program, his home, and taste in dress are familiar topics to the people of the United States. The presidential yacht, though, to the public, is a mystery. It is because of its history and its associations with four presidents it is one of the most interesting ships in the navy.

The U. S. S. Mayflower is a yacht of which any potentate of Europe might be proud. Although it is a quarter of a century old it is still known as one of the largest yachts afloat, and while it is no longer strictly a modern vessel of its type, its beautiful furnishings and appointments and its picked crew make it a comfortable little palace.

The Mayflower is not extravagantly outfitted with antique furniture and art treasures. Its attractiveness is in its simplicity. From the shining decks with their polished brass to the music room fitted out in cretione and cool green, the yacht is a model pleasure boat.

The ship's rooms are mainly done in blue and green now — Mrs. Harding's selections. In December, just after Mr. Harding's election, the Mayflower caught fire and was seriously damaged. Mr. Wilson was not using the yacht, and as it is called for very little during the winter anyway, the question of redecorating the rooms was left to the incoming president and his wife.

Mrs. Harding planned a new color scheme for the ship. Before, rose had been the favored color for the bedrooms and salons. Mrs. Harding had the bedrooms done in a soft shade of blue. With blue silk covers on the polished wood of the beds, and with pink roses on the chests and dressing tables, the staterooms of the yacht are one of the most generally admired features of the ship when it is shown to guests.

The music room chairs and sofas are covered with effective cretione in black with a pattern of marine animals and plants in bright colors. The prevailing color here and in the white-paneled dining room is green.

The baths of the Mayflower are of solid marble, very luxurious in appearance, but according to one officer, a little chilly. There is a story that one of the Roosevelt boys once brought his pet alligator aboard the Mayflower on a family cruise, and deposited it in one of these marble tubs. By accident the water run into the tub was too hot even for a tropical reptile and the alligator was discovered later in a parboiled condition, to the great sorrow of the boys.

Fireplaces in which wood or coal may be burned are an unusual feature boasted by the presidential yacht. It is a roomy, comfortable place with cozy corners where telephones of importance to the nation's destiny are rumored to have taken place at various times.

One little nook between two passage ways has been outfitted as a study. A desk and a glass case filled with the president to work aboard ship if he wishes to do so. The study is not used to any great extent, however. When the president travels on business or when affairs of state are pressing he rarely orders out the official yacht. Presidential cruises on the Mayflower are mainly guest parties and short pleasure trips—week ends and sails to Newport, Cape Cod, or on the Potomac. At such times the weary executive important a few papers or dictate to letters, but he tries to rest. The Mayflower, being a naval vessel, requires a much larger crew than a privately-owned yacht. The crew of a pleasure boat may disengage most of the crew when the ship is not in use and hire men again when they are needed. The Mayflower all time and is governed in every detail by naval regulations.

Serving in the president's yacht is an honor prized by naval men. Others find it monotonous to be stationed in Washington practically all the time. They prefer a battleship in foreign waters to the domesticated Mayflower.

In 1904, it is true, the Mayflower went with a squadron of the Atlantic fleet to Europe. But for the most part it rarely goes farther from its base than the West Indies. Tradition and business make most chief executives stay at home.

THE QUESTION BOX

The Bureau cannot give advice on legal, medicinal, and financial matters. It does not attempt to settle domestic troubles, nor to undertake exhaustive research on any subject. Q. Why do so many ranches have names beginning with "Lazy"? W. A. A. This name refers to the brand. When letters of the alphabet are used they are often varied by their position; when tilted at an angle of 45 degrees, they are said to be tumbling, when lying flat on their back or face, they are said to be "laid."

Q. How many gallons of fuel oil will it take to heat a room of 1000 sq. ft. in heat value? H. E. P. A. The Bureau of Mines says that no positive statement can be made as to the relative fuel value of oil and coal, because some coal has more fuel value than others. This is also the same of oils. Most experiences fall in a limit of 4 to 4 1/2 barrels of oil as the equivalent of one long ton of coal.

Q. How many nationalities are there in the United States and how many languages are spoken? M. A. A. There are represented about 40 different nationalities in the United States. The number of languages and dialects spoken in America is 1,624.

Q. Of just what do belles-lettres consist? F. B. A. Formerly the expression was sometimes used as the equivalent to the humanities but it is now applied rather vaguely to literary works of style, taste and imagination. In other words, "polite literature." The term has no recorded use in English before 1710, when it was used by Swift in the Tatler.

Q. How many automobiles have the Continental motor? B. J. B. A. In the United States there are 26 makes of automobiles which have Continental motors.

Q. What is sesamum? L. E. F. A. Sesamum is a name given to a genus of about 12 species of Indian or African herbs. The plant yielded oil obtained from them keds well and is used both as food and cosmetic. The oil cake, mixed with honey and preserved citron, is a popular delicacy in India. In 1921, the sesamum yield was 472,000 tons.

Q. What is the origin of the word bashful? J. J. A. Bashful is allied to the word bash in derivation. Bash is derived from the Latin ex plus bash, an interjection of astonishment. In Middle English bash was confused with abash, until the word took on a tinge of the meaning of abash.

Q. What is luck? J. H. A. Luck is generally described as something that happens seemingly by chance. It may be an event either good or evil which affects the interests or happenings of an individual, but this happening is entirely casual. "Luck," however, carries the idea of good luck only.

Give It to Them—

This trial tube—watch their teeth improve

If you prefer, let your children make this test. Let them brush their teeth a few days in this modern way. Then look and see what film removal means.

This is a way to whiter, cleaner, safer teeth. Millions now employ it. Leading dentists everywhere advise it. Let someone in your home this week show the benefits it brings.

Why teeth look dingy

Your teeth are coated with a viscous film. You can feel it with your tongue. It clings to teeth, gets between the teeth and stays. It dims and may ruin teeth.

Ordinary tooth pastes do not effectively combat it. So film-coats have been almost universal.

Film absorbs stains, making the teeth look dingy. Film is the basis of tartar. It holds food substance which ferments and forms acids. It holds the acids in contact with the teeth to cause decay. Germs breed by millions in it. They with tartar, are the chief cause of pyorrhea. Thus most tooth troubles are now traced to film, and, despite the tooth brush, they have constantly increased.

Must remove it daily

Dental science has long been seeking a daily film combantant. Now two effective methods have been found. Authorities have proved them by many careful tests.

A new-day tooth paste has been perfected, to comply with modern requirements. And these two film combatants are embodied in it. The name of the tooth paste is Pepsodent.

Millions of people of some forty races now employ it daily, largely by dental advice.

Two other new effects

Pepsodent brings two other effects which authorities now deem essential. It multiplies the starch digestant in saliva. That is there to digest starch deposits on teeth which may otherwise ferment and form acids.

It multiplies the alkalinity of the saliva. That is Nature's neutralizer for the acids which cause decay.

Every application gives these great tooth-protecting forces multiplied effect.

Real protection now

Now you can know what really clean teeth mean. Pepsodent fights film-coats, starch and acids—all the great tooth enemies. Then it leaves the mouth in normal alkaline condition. The glistening teeth you see everywhere now show something of the benefits it brings.

New beauty in a week

The Pepsodent effects are quickly seen and felt. This test will be a revelation to you.

Present the coupon for a 10-Day Tube. Note how clean the teeth feel after using. Mark the absence of the viscous film. See how teeth whiten as the film-coats disappear. Note the refreshing taste it leaves.

It will bring you prettier teeth, and quickly. But, more than that, it will bring you safer teeth. Cut out the coupon so you won't forget.

NOVEL WAY TO GET BACK LIBRARY BOOKS

Special to The Post-Crescent

Kaukauna.—Springtime is housecleaning time. At this time of year, housewives take inventory of their belongings and discover innumerable things which have been hidden away and forgotten. Miss Adeline Cooke, librarian at the high school and Miss Lillian Bell, public librarian, have decided that bargain week in the libraries and housecleaning week come hand in hand.

Bargain week is being observed this week, during which time patrons of either library will be permitted to return overdue books with "fines remitted and no questions asked." Books that have been disappearing so fast that the librarians have taken this method of trying to recover some of them. It is expected that all people who have books belonging to the library which are long overdue, will return them before the end of bargain week.

ZWICK IS WINNER IN SECOND ROUND

Kaukauna.—Jack Zwick still swings in waked punch in the second round in that round of the semi-windup fight Friday evening in Green Bay. Zwick won over Vnuick of Manitowoc, on a technical knockout. Practically every one of Zwick's battles have been won by a K. O. in the second round.

Zwick sent Vnuick to the mat at the close of the round but the bell saved the Manitowoc man from a knockout. The referee, however, decided the Lake Shore scrapper had enough and gave the bout to Zwick.

Vnuick had the better of the first round. He started out like a whirlwind and battered Zwick around the ring for the first three minutes.

FLAGMEN RESPONSIBLE FOR FINE SAFETY RECORD

Lake-st. railroad crossing, one of the most congested traffic points in the city, has had no accidents for nearly a year due more to the precaution and alertness of flagmen and switchmen than to the traveling public which is ever ready to take a chance. Automobile drivers and pedestrians, particularly school children, still insist on dodging around flagmen to cross the track in front of an approaching train and frequently are reprimanded by that official. Automobiles which during the tourist season pass that point at the rate of from 200 to 300 an hour are again becoming numerous.

STUDENTS MUST HAVE RESIDENCE IN CITY TO VOTE

Young People Here for Temporary Purposes Only Are Not Eligible

Students who are in Appleton only for the purpose of acquiring an education in Lawrence and who have no intention of making this city their home are not entitled to vote in municipal elections, according to Fred V. Heinemann, district attorney. Mr. Heinemann cites a decision of the state supreme court in the case of Selbold, respondent, vs. Wahl and another, appellants, to back up his statement.

This case grew out of an attempt of students at the University of Wisconsin to vote and the decision of the supreme court was written by Judge Eschweiler.

Following is the way the decision has been summed up: "Attendance at an institution of learning for the sole purpose of acquiring an education is not of itself sufficient to establish the student's residence at that place so as to entitle him to vote there.

"In such a case much weight is to be given to the fact as to whether or not the student is emancipated from his family in the matter of looking to them for a home or a place to which to return for means of support.

"A student who registered at the state university from another place in the state, where his parents reside and to which place he returns in his vacations, and who is dependent, in part at least, upon that home for his support, was not entitled to vote in Madison, his attendance at the university being for a 'temporary purpose merely,' within the meaning of sub. 3, sec. 651, Stats. 1915, and his removal to Madison being without the intention to acquire a new residence," within the meaning of sub. 9 of that section."

WATER IS TOO HIGH FOR GOOD FISHING

There has been little fishing so far this spring, particularly below Lake-st. bridge. Several fishermen have tried out this popular fishing ground with rod and reel but did not get a strike. Others have tried their luck at other points of the river, but returned home empty handed. The water is said to be too high and too muddy for any kind of fishing.

FOOD LESSON NO. 18

Diet Experts Recommend the Health Foods in GOOD LUCK

Pure bred, pedigreed cows on three hundred model dairy farms, situated in the famous Elgin dairy district, of Illinois contribute the full-cream milk which is used in churning Jelke GOOD LUCK—the nourishing spread for bread.

Milk from these cows is rich in butter fats and proteins. That is why we use it as the principal ingredient of GOOD LUCK. Speeded to our daylight churnery in swift refrigerator cars, it is immediately churned and shipped to our dealers.

With this creamy milk are churned nutritious oils extracted from the fats of corn-fed beef steers. These oils contain additional energizing food qualities, making GOOD LUCK not only a tempting spread but a health food of exceptional value.

For families with growing children GOOD LUCK Spread for Bread is just the thing. Containing only ingredients which diet experts recommend, it is easily assimilated and may be used unsparingly.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN QUICKLY SOOTHED WITH SUPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema; that is covered with ugly rash or pimples; or is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions so quickly, says a noted skin specialist. The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

A small jar of Mentho-Sulphur may be had at any good drug store. adv.

WANTS VETERANS TO ASK PENSIONS

Virginia Man Writes Chief Prim About Veterans of Spanish-American War

Veterans of the Spanish-American war are urged to apply for pensions under the law recently passed by congress.

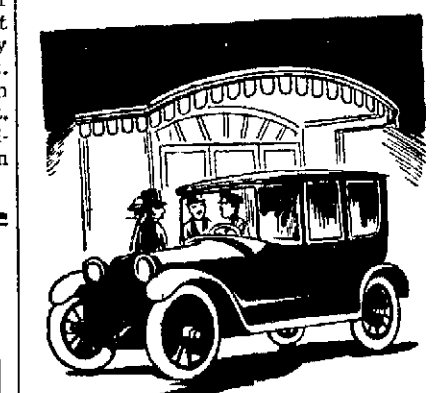

A letter to this effect was received by George T. Prim, chief of police, from Walter S. Buchanan, Louisa, Va., former aid-de-camp, Army and Navy union of the United States. The writer explains that many of the veterans entitled to this compensation have not sent in their applications and the chief's assistance is asked in locating such people and urging them to apply.

All men who served 90 days or more in the Spanish-American war, China relief expedition or in the Philippines prior to July 4, 1902 are eligible to receive a pension. This applies also to widows of the veterans.

Former soldiers, sailors and marines with the above service record who were honorably discharged and who are now more than 62 years of age may file applications. The law also allows pension to those who are materially disabled by disease from earning their living by manual labor, if the disability is not the result of their own misconduct. Such disability must be permanent but need not be total or resulting from military service.

Soldiers under 62 years may make claims for disability and the amount of pension given ranges from $12 to $30 a month.

Mr. Buchanan offers advice and full pension details to all who will write him at R. F. D. No. 2, Louisa, Va., enclosing stamp for reply.

SCOUTS TO GO ON AN ALL DAY HIKE

Many Activities are Planned by Scout Leaders for Week of Vacation

Appleton Boy Scouts will go on an all day hike next Saturday. According to present plans they will leave this city early in the morning and tramp into the woods where they will make camp and cook lunch. Following lunch scout tests will be given and Scout games played. They will hike back to Appleton late in the afternoon. Individual scout troops are planning hikes for early in the week.

Boys are already making bird houses for the contest which closes on April 18. With spring vacation starting Monday Scouts will have all week to work on their bird houses. Several boys already have signed to go to the summer camp at Camp Onaway, near Waupaca, from Aug. 7 to Sept. 2. The Appleton camp this year will be limited to 160 boys and H. P. Buck, Scout executive, is anxious that boys who intend to go to camp give their names to him as soon as possible. Boys will be limited to two weeks at camp and the total cost, including transportation, will be $5.50 a week.

WAGE CUTS BECOME EFFECTIVE APRIL 1

A large number of industrial institutions in the Fox river valley have announced reductions in wages effective April 1. The cuts in most instances are 4 cents an hour. Several institutions made the new readjustment of wages some weeks ago. Employers, in explaining the wage readjustments, declare that normalcy in industry is impossible until there is a readjustment of all costs and prices in their relation to each other. So long as some items of living or of costs are out of proportion to other items readjustment will be incomplete and prosperity and revival of business is impossible without this complete readjustment, they say.

SPECIAL TRAIN TO TAKE DELEGATES TO CAPITAL

A special train will be made up at Chicago on the Pennsylvania lines to convey businessmen of the west to the annual meeting of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States in Washington May 15 to 18, according to a letter received by Secretary Hugh G. Corbett of the local chamber. Whether a delegate will go from Appleton is to be decided by the board of directors at its next meeting. Fares have been reduced to the fare and-a-half basis for those who attend.

10 PEDIGREED BULLS TO BE OFFERED AT AUCTION

Ten purebred Guernsey bulls with outstanding pedigrees are to be auctioned at the W. L. Breitrick farm, northeast of Greenville, at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, April 6, with E. C. Meltz at the block.

Consignors to the sale are Breitrick Bros., Dietz Bros., and Jamison Bros., who have taken this means of placing their surplus sires with other farmers who are interested in purebreds.

Animals with such ancestors as Pencoed Golden May Secret and Imported King of the May are included in the group and there are seven with dams having advanced registry records and producing 500 pounds of fat or more in a year.

Beautiful Grounds

Fred Kalmes of Fort Atkinson has been awarded the contract for landscape work at Rainbow Gardens resort. Rare shrubs and trees will be set out and other work done on the grounds. It is planned to make the Rainbow Gardens resort one of the prettiest resorts in Wisconsin.

50,000 RUBLES TO PAY POSTAGE ON ONE LETTER

Mrs. A. L. Kias returned recently from Chicago bringing with her a registered letter sent from Russia to her cousin in Chicago. Due to the present value of the Russian ruble, it required 50 stamps of 1,000 rubles denominations to bring the letter to America. The stamps more than covered the back of the envelope so that it was necessary to fold them over one another in order that they might not be torn off. Fifty thousand rubles at one time was considerable money in Russia but under present conditions is worth little.

A Business Statement that is a Great Human Record

HOW WAS IT DONE?

Records kept by the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company show an extraordinary decrease in the death rate among its Industrial, or weekly premium, policy-holders. Comparing 1921 with 1911, for example, there were 55,000 less deaths in 1921 than there would have been if the 1911 death rate had prevailed.

What brought about the great saving of life?

The general public health movement—progress in medical science and sanitation—other causes, perhaps. But a very great factor has been the tremendous health campaign carried on by the Metropolitan itself. This page tells a part of the story.

FOR THE NATION'S HEALTH

144 health exhibits and emergency hospitals at county fairs last year; 295 "Clean-up" campaigns; agitation by Agents for health legislation; nationwide campaigns against special diseases; sickness and sanitary surveys; a study of municipal health departments; leadership of practically all American research work relating to influenza—these are some instances of the Metropolitan's activity in the interest of public health.

HOMES FOR 17,744 FAMILIES

In the investment of its funds, the Metropolitan is now giving preference to loans which will aid housing. During 1920 and 1921, the Company made and pledged loans of $68,080,017, on new dwellings and new apartment houses, providing homes for 17,744 families.

GREAT DECLINE IN DEATH RATES

The death rate among Industrial policy-holders reached its lowest point in 1921—31.9% lower than in 1911. The rate from typhoid decreased 71%; tuberculosis, 49%; Bright's disease, nearly 30%; infectious diseases of children nearly 37%. The "Expectation of Life" of white males (reckoned from age 10) increased 4 years.

PUBLIC APPRECIATION

The American people have made the Metropolitan the greatest life insurance company in the world, with $7,005,707,839 insurance in force. It leads not only in Industrial but in Ordinary. More than half of its business in force is Ordinary—$3,892,267,274—which is more than that of any Company in the world.

THE FUTURE

The Metropolitan will continue its endeavor to offer the best there is in life, health and accident insurance, and to save human life. Continued growth will give the Company still greater opportunities to serve the American people in insurance protection and in the conservation of life and health.

"The Company OF the People, BY the People, FOR the People."—John R. Hegeman

BEGIN HERE TODAY

After eight years of married life, MARK SABRE comes to realize that he is neither understood by his prosaic and snobbish wife, all the years of travel, colleagues in the firm of Fortune, East and Sabre. A promised partnership in the business has been denied him and promised to TWYNING, a jealous associate. Suddenly an old sweetheart, NONA, now the wife of the dashing LORD TYBAR, returns after two years of travel. Mabel becomes jealous of Nona who visits Sabre at his office. Something makes Sabre suspect that Nona is not happily married. She says she is "just drifting, floatsam."

GO ON WITH THE STORY
She said swiftly, as though she were stirred. "Oh, Marko, yes, that's my husband. Do you know sometimes I've seen drift like that, and I've felt—oh, I don't know. But I've put out a stick and drawn in a piece of wood just as the stuff was moving off, just to save it being carried away into—well, into that, you know."

"Have you, Nona?"
She answered, "Do you think that's what life is, Marko?"
"It's not unlike," he said. And he added, "Except about someone coming along with a stick and drawing a bit into safety. I'm not sure about that. Perhaps that's what we're all looking for—"

He suddenly realized that he was back precisely at the thoughts his mind had taken up on the morning he had met her. But with a degree more of illumination. Two feelings came into his mind, the second hard upon the other and overriding it, as a fierce horseman might catch and override one pursued. He said, "It's rather jolly to have someone that can see ideas like that." And, then the overriding, and he said, with astonishing roughness, "But you—you aren't floatsam! How can you be floatsam—the life you've taken?"

And, lo, if he had struck her, and she been bound, defenseless, and with her eyes entreating not to be struck again, she could not deeper have entreated him than in the glance she flitted from her eyes, the quiver of her lids that first released, then veiled it.

It stopped his words. It caught his throat.

III
He got up quickly. "I say, Nona, never mind about thinking. I'll tell you what's been doing. Rotten. Happened just after I met you the other day."

"The dust on these roads!" she said. She touched her eyes with her handkerchief. "What, Marko?"

"Well, old Fortune promised to take me into partnership about an age ago."

"Marko, he ought to have done it an age ago. What's there rotten about that?" Her voice and her air were as gay as when she had entered.

"The rotten thing is that he's turned it down. At least practically has. He—" He told her of the Twyning and Fortune incident. "Pretty rotten of old Fortune, don't you think?"

"Old fiend!" said Nona. "Old trout!" Sabre laughed. "Good work, trout. The men here all say he's like a whale. They call him Jonah," and he told her why.

She laughed gaily. "Marko! How disgusting you are! But I'm sorry. I am. Poor old Marko. . . Of course it doesn't matter a horse-radish what an old trout like that thinks about your work, but it does matter, doesn't it? I know how you feel."

She was at the shelves, scanning the books. Her fond, her almost tender sympathy made him, too, feel that it was rather fine. Her light words in her high, clear tone voiced exactly his feelings towards the books. Talking with her was, in the reception and return of his thoughts, nearer to reading a book that delighted him than to anything else with which he could compare it. There was the same interchange of ideas, not necessarily expressed; the same creation and play of fancy, imagined, not stated.

IV
She sat briskly forward in the big armchair in which she faced him, making of the motion a movement as though throwing aside a turn of the conversation and taking a turn of her own. "Well, so I'll go on, Marko. I'm not going to let you stop talking yet. I love that about how people get success nowadays. It's jolly true. I never thought of it before. Yes, you're still a terribly thinky person, Marko. Go on. Think some more. Out loud."

Carressing—drawing him on—just as of old.
He said thoughtfully, "I tell you a thing I often think a lot about, Nona. You being here like this puts it in my mind. Conventions."

She smiled teasingly. "Ah, poor Marko. I knew you'd simply hate it, my coming like this. Does it seem terribly unconventional, improper, to you, shut up with me in your office?" He shook his head. "It seems very nice. That's all it seems. Look here, Nona, this really is rather interesting—"

"Yes," she said. "Yes."
Just so he used to bring ideas to her; just so, with "Yes-yes," she used to receive them.

But he went on. "Why, convention, you know, it's the most mysterious, extraordinary thing. It's a code society has built up to protect itself and to govern itself, and when you go into it it's the most marvelous code that ever was invented. All sorts of things that the law doesn't give, and couldn't give, our conventions shove in on us in the most amazing way. And all probably originated by a lot of Mother Grundy-ish old women, that's what's so extraordinary. You know, it all the greatest legal minds of all the ages had laid themselves out to make a social code they never could have got anywhere near the rules the people have built up for themselves. And that's what I like, Nona—that's what I think so interesting and the best thing in life: the things the people do for themselves without any state interference. That's what I'd encourage all I knew how if I were a politician."

He broke off. "I say, aren't I the limit, gassing away like this? I hardly ever get off nowadays and when I do—Why don't you stop me?"
She made a little gesture deprecating of his suggestion. "Because I like to hear you. I like to watch your funny old face when you're on one of your ideas. It gets red and slowly comes up. Funny old face! Go on, I want to hear this because I'm going to disagree with you. I think, I think, conventions, the most of them, are odious, hateful, Marko. I hate them."

V
He had been strangely affected by the words of her interruptions; a contraction in the throat—a twitching about the eyes. . . But he was able, and glad that he was able to catch eagerly at her opinion. "Yes, yes, I know, odious, hateful, and much more than that, cruel—conventions can be as cruel as cruel as hell!"

was just coming to that. But they're all absolutely right, based, Nona. That's the baffling and the maddening part of them. "That's what interests me in them."

"Look at this stuff there's been in the papers lately about what they call the problem of the unmarried mother. Now there's a brute of a case for you; a girl gets into trouble and while she sticks to her baby she's made an outcast; every door is shut to her; her own people will have nothing to do with her; no one will take her in—so long as she's got the baby with her. That's convention and you can imagine cases where it's cruel beyond words. But it's no good cursing society about it. You can't help seeing that the convention is fundamentally right and essential. Where on earth would you be if girls with babies could find homes as easily as girls without babies?" He smiled. "You'd have babies pouring out all over the place. See it?"

She nodded. "I do think that's interesting, Marko. Yes, cruel and hateful and preposterous many of them, but all fundamentally right."

Presently she said, "Yes, you do still think things, Marko. You haven't changed a bit, you know."

He smiled. "Oh, well, it's only two years, you know—less than two years since you went away."

"I wasn't thinking of two years," "How many years were you thinking of?"

"Ten."
They just sat there.

VI
The insistent shrieking of a motor siren in the street below began to penetrate their silence. "What the devil's that?"

An extravagantly long motor car was drawn up against the curb. Lord Tybar, in a dust coat and a sleek bowler hat of silver gray, sat in the driver's seat. He was industriously and without cessation winding the handle of the siren. An uncommonly pretty woman sat beside him. She was massed in furs. In her ears she held the index finger out on each side of her head.

At Nona's call Lord Tybar ceased the handle and looked up with his engaging smile; the uncommonly pretty woman removed her fingers from her ears and also turned upwards her uncommonly pretty face.

As they went down Sabre asked, "Who's that with him in the car?" "One of his friends. Staying with us."

Something in her voice made it afterwards—occur to him as odd that she spoke of one of "his," not one of "our" friends, and did not mention her name.

VII
Through the day Sabre's thoughts, as a man sorting through many documents and coming upon and retaining one, fined down towards a picture of himself alone with Nona—alone with her, watching her beautiful face—and saying to her: "Look here, there were three things you said, three expressions you used. Explain them, Nona."

New Pup Can't Lure Dying Boy To Wish To Live

Chicago. — A little bull terrier pup sits on a cot in a Chicago hospital—now and then pulling at the covers—suddenly romping down on the floor—then back to the cot again with a playful yelp.

And little Russell Mueller looks on—quiet—possibly amused—but with an undecided smile on his face. The puppy is trying to take the place of "Peggy," another bull terrier, who was once Russell's pal, but who recently died.

The death of "Peggy" brought to Russell the first sadness he has known.

"I wanna go to heaven, too, mamma," he said, in tears. That's how much "Peggy" meant to the boy.

That same day Officer Victor Schwartz visited the Mueller home. He took his gun from his holster and hid it behind a pillow on a davenport. Russell found it.

That is why Russell is on a hospital cot. The one bullet that his little finger sent blazing forth from the heavy gun penetrated the youth's hip.

The bones are shattered—he may be a cripple.

And while surgeons are trying to save Russell, physically, a new little bull terrier pup is trying to bring back the old smile.

GIRL CONFESSES TO TAKING MONEY FROM WAITRESSES

New Policewoman Secures Confession in First Case in Appleton

Mrs. Mildred H. Gardner handed her first case as policewoman for Appleton Saturday when Sylvia Burke, arrested in Green Bay charged with grand larceny of $38 from Miss Josephine Van Handle and Miss Elsie Seif, waitresses at a local hotel.

Mrs. Gardner obtained a confession from Miss Burke that she had taken the money and used it to buy articles of clothing at two local stores. One of the articles was returnable and the money refunded by the merchant.

The waitresses occupied a room together and had their money hidden in a commode. Miss Burke obtained employment at the hotel about two weeks ago and when the money was missed last Tuesday Detective John Duvall was assigned to the case. The accused girl was questioned but denied the theft. She then disappeared from the city.

Detective Duvall traced Miss Burke to Green Bay. Mrs. Gardner accompanied Detective Duvall and Chief George T. Prim to Green Bay to bring her back to Appleton.

Miss Burke's case was continued for a week when she appeared before Judge A. M. Spencer in municipal court Monday morning.

THIS WILL BE REAL "PAINT UP" SEASON

Demand for Paints is Greatest in History, Dealers Declare

Dealers claim they never had such a demand for paints at this time of the year as at present. Property owners out of employment are taking advantage of the opportunity to paint and redecorate their homes, while painters have been busy during the greater part of the winter on similar work for patrons.

Painters expect to be swamped with orders as soon as outside work opens up. Because of the scarcity of money and the high price of material and labor many property owners put off painting their residences as long as possible and indications are there will be a general rush to have work done as early in the season as possible.

Quite a number of homes will be painted by their owners but this will represent only a small percentage and will have little effect on relieving general conditions. Scarcity of experienced painters will be one of the greatest handicaps of the season. There have been very few apprentices in this work for several years and the result is the number of painters is gradually diminishing.

After 42 days of bowling in which more than 1,000 maple busters competed for the prizes in the events the tenth annual state bowling tournament for Elks came to a close at 2:30 Sunday afternoon on the Appleton Elks' home drive. The big pin classic closed with Kenosha bowlers, including John Powell, one of the stars of the country, rolling singles.

The tournament this year had the largest number of entrants and was the most successful in the history of the annual meet. More than 9,000 games were rolled and high scores were made in each event of the classic.

The tournament was in charge of F. A. Hammond, H. L. Dawson and James H. Balliet of Appleton who arranged the schedule and supervised all details. To these men is given credit for the big success of the affair.

BREAKS RECORD

Appleton bowlers hung up high scores in the tournament and the Rainbow Gardens of this city captured first place in the five-man event, the feature event of the classic. The Rainbow Gardens shot for a score of 3,001, a better record than was made in the A. B. C. meet at Toledo this year. This score breaks the record for the state tournament for Elks.

The highest individual score of the classic was 255, shot by R. Coban of Madison. The highest team score for a single game was 1,078, made by the Rainbow Gardens of Appleton. The highest average for three games was made by C. F. Currie of Appleton who averaged 226 rolling with the Rainbow Gardens team. Mr. Currie shot a total of 678 pins in the five-man event which is the highest score of the classic for three games.

Kenosha and Appleton bowlers rolled Saturday and Sunday failed to place among the leaders in the events. Following are the scores made Saturday night and Sunday.
